A handful of DownUnder business owners Shelia Lyon, The Magic Shop, Adrienne DeCoster, Women's Hall of Fame, Daryl Strand, Market Coins and Darlene Christopher, Christopher's Lamp, spoke on KUOW's the WORKS to discuss their experiences as small, independent business owners. DownUnder also began a facelift project of sorts. The floors are being redone, buffed back to their early twentieth-century glory. (The only complain is from one unnamed skateboarder.) Margaret DeFredo, Sunshine Jewelry, is spearheading a motion to strip the paint off of the impressive vertical support beams that are the trees that once grew on the shores of Elliot Bay. Construction has begun in Patty Summers former location in the Corner Market; the longtime cabaret/jazz club is morphing into a nightclub, of sorts. They ambitiously hope to be open in early December. After many clues and insinuations the Ricola Mystery Cougher Competition came to the Market, November 15. After hearing the final clue: Catch the cougher watching Rachel eat Pennies on the radio and the Internet, potential winners flocked to the area under the clock for their really big chance. Shane O'Neil, at Market Grill, was reportedly chanting Reeeeeee-coal-aahhhh most of the day. After the cough clouds cleared Seattleite Fred Jacobs was the $1000 winner (go to www.ricolausa.com to track the winners on the map). Representative Elaine Bourke mentioned Market magic as a major factor, she enjoyed the fantastic turnout and the great location, and wanted to give a shout-out to participating radio stations. Next stop is San Francisco, but rumor has it they are coming back to Seattle. Down at the Heritage House, November 26, Grace Stanchfield celebrated her 100th birthday. Her grandson Patrick Smith threw the party celebrating a century of life in Seattle and her two great great grandsons that will be the fifth generation of Pike Place Market Shoppers in the family. All month long the many elves of the PDA worked to ready to Market for the eagerly anticipated holiday season. Ninety-nine outside trees, three inside trees and one giant tree were placed and strung with lights. The Rein-Pigs were readied (On a side PIG-note for the first time ever Marlys, of the Market Foundation, loaned-out one of the Market's precious pigs, for a Group Health function.) The Rein-Pigs and the Electric Three, the illuminated pear, strawberry and carrot were readied for the pig-oh, I mean BIGGEST OF THE BIG night of November 25. The lighting ceremony went smoothly and a few lucky look-y-loos picked up
